ANNOUNCEMENTS

THOMAS MUSICAL COMEDY CO. In a New Programme at the Davis Today.

Bright, beautiful, sparkling and funny are terms that apply truthfully to the Thomas Musical Comedy company new appearing at the Davis. All that experience, taste and capital combined can supply has been done to make this the very gem of musical tabloid com A generous hand and skilful brain is apparent in each feature and the result is a happy combination of color, light, mirth and music, pretty faces and shapely forms abound, and there is not one dull or uninteresting there is not one dull or uninteresting moment from starf to finish. In the whirl of agreeable events the audience is carried along a flood tide of pleasant surprises and the time passes all too swiftly, leaving the audience in high good humor and filled with admiration for the Thomas Musical Comedy company's latest and greatest effort. Today they will give an entirely new show and all new singing numbers and specialties will be introduced. Every member of this company is a singer of merit, and many surprises are promised in the show today. Another feature on today's bill will be the two-reel Keystone comedy, Dough and Dynamite, with that funny fellow, Charlie Chaplin, keeping everyone in Dynamite, with that funny fellow, Charlie Chaplin, keeping everyone in roars for one solid half hour. This picture has been pronounced by everyone as the funniest Charlie ever appeared in, and if you want to see him at his best, don't miss this picture. Other Mutual Movies will complete the show. Matinee at 2.15; all seats 10c. Be sure and see this show.

COLONIAL THEATRE. The Game of Life, Special Two-Par Vitagraph Feature Film.

An especially strong story is told today at the Colonial theatre in the big two-reel Vitagraph feature entitled The Game of Life. Featured in this spectacle is Alfred Vosburgh, William Duncan, Myrtle Gonzalez and many other favorites. It is the story of a politician's only son who becomes acquainted with a gambler and his daughter, with whom the boy falls in love. The girl accepts from him a locket sultably inscribed with the donor's initials. This is stolen from her by a pal of her brother's and later is by a pal of her brother's and later is introduced as evidence in a murder case in which the politician's innocent son is accused. The story is very in-teresting and is ably presented by this admirable cast.

Richard Travers, Ruth Stonehouse Richard Travers, Ruth Stonehouse and others appear in the sterling film entitled A Romance of the Night, in which a youth out in his speed machine detects a young girl being abducted by a gang in a passing motorcar. How he pursued the parties and caused the arrest of them, and the rescue of the girl, is told in this snappy film for today. Fatty and the Shyster, Weary Willie's Rage, and other splendid films complete today's programme Coming tomorrow, The Regenerating Love, a three-reel Lubin masterpieca with all-star cast.

AT THE AUDITORIUM.

The second tango contest of a series hich will be run at this house will ke place at $200 take piace at 8.30 o'clock tomorrow (Thursday) evening and several names of those who wish to enter have already been received at the box office, assuring a fine contest, even if no other names come in. However, names of those who wish to enter will be taken up to 4 o'clock Thursday afternoon, and it is preferred that each gentleman bring his own partner, but if he is unable to do this, five of the girls of the company that is appearing at the Auditorium this week have volun-teered to dance with those who have no local girls for pariners, and a short relocal girls for pariners, and a short re-hearsal can be arranged for when the name is handed in. There will be one prize of $5, the winning of which will be judged by the applause of the au-dience. The Hinkey-Dee Girls will present today and tomorrow the laugh-able farce Charlle's Aunt, and in this bill Tom Carroll and Happy McNally who have become very popular about Covey will introduce some very clever dancing numbers and Gladys Lloyd will sing and dance in her usual attractive style. There will be many new song numbers and some beautiful costumes will also be introduced throughout the piece. throughout the plece.

On the picture programme today and tomorrow the Exploits of Elaine in two reels will be the feature. This is the eleventh episode and Elaine is still being subjected to scientific schemes of the Clutching Hand. The comedy real today will be Fools and Pajamas, by the popular Joker company.

He says:

The letter which you published from Count Albert Apponyl, formerly Hungarian Minister of Educamerly Hungarian Minister of Jackston, voices the wonderment frequently expressed by our German friends that we Americans prefer Great Britain's "Militarism on the Sea" to Germany's militarism on land. A reasonable expenditure of the seasonable of the seasonable expenditure of the seasonable expensive of the seasonable expens planation of that preference would be perhaps, impossible to make if we Americans believed, as Count Apponyi and our German friends contend, that Great Britain really does exercise "militarism on the sea;" but we do not believe it. Militarism is something that we understand to be aggressive, arrogant and offensive—in short, selfishness carried beyond any natural or tolerable limit. Formerly Great Britain might very justly have been charged by us with exhibiting "militarism on the sea," but during the last hundred years we have not planation of that preference would the last hundred years we have not had any difference with her that was not adjusted peaceably, and during the last decade she has always shown herself ready to submit to arbitration any and all controversies that have arisen in which she was directly or in-directly concerned, and which could not be settled by diplomacy. Unri-valed power she has had on the sea, but she has used it wisely, and has put no objectionable restraints on the trade and commerce of other nations with her and her possessions or with the rest of the world. To charge her, then, with "militarism on the sea" and to compare it with Germany's militarism on land is absurd. Germany's militarism on land stands by itself, and can be compared with nothing that has existed since with nothing that has existed since with nothing that has existed since the constant of the control of th the days of Napoleon. It is entirely unworthy of the German people. It has perverted their conscience, their humanity, their morality, and even

THE SHARED BURDEN.

Methought to share my burden with a The weight of it had grown so hard to hear, No longer dared I hold it all my own, Lest it should fell me in my deep despair.

But when I greeted her to whom I Methought I saw another's soul's de-

My own forgotten left me strangely wise.

She must be comforted, this sorry one, not I.

Who never dreamed she ever knew such woe,

She always held our courage up so high.

And as the tears and trouble left her face,
My sorrow I no longer cared to share,
For suddenly I ceased to feel its weight,
And half my burden seemed to leave me there. And from the depths of the tired heart's desire
Has come this blessing to make us strangely wise.
That half the burden fell away When we had given others cheer.

The minister was delivering his fare-well sermon, relates the Klowa Review. He had been having tough luck in collecting his salary and concluded to quit. Here is what he said: "Now, brethren, I have been appointed chaplain of the penitentiary of the state and this will be my last Sunday among you. I will preach from the text, 'I go to prepare a place for you,' after which the choir will sing 'Meet Me There'."

Once upon a time in a Missouri town there was a shoe store, and over the door was the sign "Shoes and Boots," recounts the Holton Record. After a while the shoe store went out of business and a saloon came along and occupied the store: The saloon keeper, heing something of a wag, and to change the sign as little as possible, made it read: "Booze and Shoots."
